Money—in some way,
shape or form—has
been part of human history for at least the last 3,000 years.

Before that time,
historians generally
agree that a system of bartering was likely used.

and economic systems that provide at least one of the functions of money. Such systems can be understood as means of trading wealth indirectly; not directly as with barter. Money is a mechanism that facilitates this process.. Money may take a physical form as in coins and notes, or may exist as a written or electronic account.
