It all depends on the setting. For a more high fantasy/ epic campaign I prefer to create either a more dualistic mythology or Greek style pantheon. Lower fantasy the more Celtic/Norse lower power gods. Semi- historical fantasy set in Arthurian Britain or time of the Crusades and Robin Hood would have the Judeo-Christian monotheistic God.

Firstly, let me say that this is a very basic entry level game into the dungeons and dragons theme. As such I thought it would be a fantastic way to get my 6 - 8 year old sons interested in fantasy games that could then be built upon. This game does exactly that. I was surprised at the quality of the board given the very cheap price of this item.

Read His Majesty's Dragon by Naomi Novik. If you can't get enough of the dragons in GoT, try the Temeraire series by Naomi Novik. This historical fantasy series takes place during the Napoleonic Wars but imagines the British Army flying on dragons as an "air force." The dragons are intelligent and form strong bonds with their human riders.
